The DECEMBER SMART SET will contain a complete novel of Washington life from the inside, entitled "Clavering and His Daughter," by Foxcroft Davis.

One of our most conservative publishing houses, on reading the first MS. of this new author, not only accepted it, but at once ordered two more books to form a series of three on social and political life at the nation's capital. The first of these will soon appear. Meanwhile THE SMART SET has secured for December the first published work by this new writer whose masterly style and startling and thorough knowledge of Washington people—many of whom are recognized in his characters—assure him in advance a phenomenal success. The intense human interest and powerful character drawing mark this novel as a masterpiece.
